

New Hampshire: Concord —

State tourism officials expect almost 600,000 visitors during Columbus Day weekend — an increase of 1% over last year's record Columbus Day holiday. A study predicts the visitors will spend more than $97 million, about 3% more than last year. The fall foliage attracts visitors from all regions of the country and around the world.

15912